Rivotril® 2.5 mg/ml Drops

1) WHAT IS THE MEDICINE INTENDED FOR?
The medicine is an anti-convulsant of the group of medicines called benzodiazepines.

2) BEFORE USING THE MEDICINE
- The medicine must be used only as prescribed by the doctor.
- Always use according to the doctor's instructions. Check with the doctor if you are suffering from severe respiratory failure or from severe liver failure.
- Notify your doctor if you have a history of alcohol or drug addiction.
- Notify your doctor if you are suffering from severe respiratory failure or from severe liver failure.
- If you are suffering from deep vein thrombosis.

3) HOW SHOULD YOU USE THE MEDICINE?
- It is especially important for people suffering from acute intoxication by alcohol or sedatives.
- It is especially important for people suffering from acute intoxication by alcohol or sedatives.
- It is recommended to always use the medicine in a spoon.
- The medicine must be adjusted to prevent accumulation of side effects when treatment is stopped.

4) POSSIBLE SIDE EFFECTS
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.

5) HOW SHOULD THE MEDICINE BE STORED?
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.

6) FURTHER INFORMATION
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.
- The medicine may cause an epileptic fit.

Note: This leaflet was checked and approved by the National Drug Registry of the Ministry of Health in August 2013. All information may be used without our written consent. The National Drug Registry of the Ministry of Health is not responsible for any adverse reactions caused by the use of the medicines and products mentioned in this leaflet.